

Objectives:

In this scenario, you will:

- Subscribe using Bloglines
- Subscribe using Google Reader

Quick Start Guide: Subscribing to a Blog

Blog entries can be reviewed directly from the course page; however, students can subscribe to a blog using a feed aggregator (e.g., Bloglines or Google Reader). The RSS feed for the blog must be enabled before users can subscribe to it. Only sites that have sharing permissions defined as available to “Everyone in the world” can be RSS enabled.

Navigation:

1. Enter a blog site.

Steps:

Subscribing with Bloglines Using a Firefox Browser

1. Click .
2. Select Bloglines from the Subscribe to the feed using drop-down menu.
3. Click the Subscribe Now button.
4. On the Bloglines page, click the Available Feeds checkbox for the blog.
5. Click the Subscribe button.

Subscribing with Bloglines Using an Internet Explorer Browser

1. Right click .
1. Select the Copy Shortcut option.
2. Access the Bloglines page.
3. On the Feeds tab, click the Add link.
4. In the Blog or Feed URL field, right click and select the Paste option.
5. Click the Subscribe button.
6. On the Available Feeds page, click the Subscribe button.

Subscribing with Google Reader Using a Firefox Browser

1. Click .
2. Select Google from the Subscribe to the feed using drop-down menu.
3. Click the Subscribe Now button.
4. On the Google page:
 - a. Click either the Add to Google homepage button.
 - b. Or click the Add to Google Reader button.

Subscribing with Google Reader Using an Internet Explorer Browser

1. Right click .
2. Select the Copy Shortcut option.
3. Access the Google Reader page.
4. Click the Add Subscription link.
5. In the subscription address field, right click and select the Paste option.
6. Click the Add button.